TESTIMONY OF REPORTERS IN SLAYER'S CASE

Loeb Said Murderer of Franks Should Be
"Strung Up."

HELPED IN SEARCH

Testimony of Young Slayers After Murder Was Committed Is Being Used In Case Today.

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 25.—Fourteen more witnesses for the state were examined today at the trial of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks.
Identified bits of evidence were gathered by the state and witnesses testified regarding conversations with Loeb before his arrest. "Whoever committed that crime should be strung up," Loeb told Alvin Goldstein, newspaper reporter, the latter testified today. The statement was later substantiated by another witness, also a newspaper man, with whom Loeb talked shortly after the murder was discovered.
Loeb gave the reporters tips on several of the developments in the search for the kidnapers, they testified. Court adjourned a half hour earlier today at noon when the state used all the witnesses summoned for the morning session. Others would be ready this afternoon, the state promised. The two defendants remained unaffected during the testimony, policemen and reporters say.

PROBE SKELETON CASE CONTINUES

Chattanooga Police Give Suspects Severe Grilling—Parties Confused.

CHATTANOOGA, July 25.—After a severe grilling by Chief of Detectives Hackett which lasted almost the entire day yesterday, D. H. Bennett and wife, brought here from Rome, Georgia, in connection with the finding of a skeleton of a woman under the floor of a basement at 15 Bluffview, were placed under guard at a hotel.
During the examination Bennett and his wife often became confused and several times contradicted each other, both of them showing great nervousness. However, they maintained that they had no knowledge of the affair, although admitting that Miss Augusta Hoffman, aged 60, a modiste, had disappeared in 1915 while a boarder at their home.
The couple further admitted that they had failed to notify the police of the disappearance of the woman, giving as a reason that they were without a clue and also without funds to prosecute the search.
William Bennett, world war veteran and son of the couple, was also questioned by the police, but little information was gleaned from him.

Mr. Schenck to Open Bowling Green Hotel

George Schenck, manager of the Hotel Cumberland, left at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon for Bowling Green where he will open the Hotel Helm, splendid new hostelry operated by the Montgomery Hotel company of which Maurice Totes is president.
Mr. Schenck does not know yet whether or not the position with the new hotel will be permanent, he having been assigned only to the management of it during the opening which is expected to take place within a few days. The new hotel, operated by the same management as the Cumberland, has 150 rooms and is strictly modern in all details.

Creek—Mrs. Billingsley Seriously Injured.

According to reports, the attention of the couple was drawn to the back seat in which some money was being carried, this causing the car to plunge from the road and roll down the embankment.

Mrs. Billingsley sustained two fractures, according to hospital reports, and other bruises. Her husband was only slightly injured. The car was badly demolished.

Fifteen Members Billy Sunday Club Coming

Because of the growing belief throughout the nation that the religion of the future will be in the hands of the laymen of the church more than in that of the pastors, the work of the Billy Sunday Club in Knoxville is especially interesting. This club, organized in our neighboring city at the time of the Billy Sunday meeting there, is composed entirely of laymen, fifteen of whom will visit Middlesboro next Sunday.

These fifteen men will have charge of the morning and evening services at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday. In addition to these they will hold a mass meeting for men at the church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Every man in town is invited to this meeting.

BELL COUNTY INCLUDED IN STATE PLANS

Contract For Further Work to Be Let
August 4.

TO LINK HIGHWAYS

Contracts Will Call For Building
125 Miles Roads and Also
Bridges In This County.

FRANKFORT, July 25.—Completion and linking of the main road arteries of Kentucky is a matter of a few months, Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer, said today. Contracts awarded recently and those bids to be let August 4, calling for 125 miles of highway, will bring together separate stretches, he said.

The work is all on main trails, as the Midland, Western Dixie Highway, Eastern Dixie Highway, and others of equal prominence, he said. "The next six months will see the greatest period of activity the highway department has ever engaged in," he said. "The reorganization of the department is progressing rapidly. The new highway commission is becoming thoroughly acquainted with the work."

The August 4 letting takes in bridge-work, a 250-foot span and 210-foot span over the Cumberland line in Harlan county between Harlan and Pineville; three bridges over the Levisa Fork in Pike county on the Pikeville-Whiteburg road; one of them 150 feet and the others 130 feet each, and the superstructure of the bridge on the Mayo Trail in Pike county. The Brooklyn Bridge in Jessamine county will be repaired and the bridge over the Cumberland Run in Bell county on the Barbourville-Pineville road.

The Midland Trail will see 15.4 miles of paving on the road between Olive Hill in Carter County, Gov. Fields' home, and Grayson; 2.3 miles of paving on the Ohio river road in Daviess county, east from Owensboro; 12.2 miles of gravel on the same road in Meade county between Brandenburg and Grahampton; 8.5 miles of macadam on the Western Dixie Highway in Warren county from the end of the rock asphalt pavement out of Bowling Green to the Edmonson county line, also are included.

On the Lookout Mountain Air Line 16.5 miles from Somerset south on the line will be constructed wide grade and drain contracts will be let on 3.1 miles out of Harlan on the Pineville road; 2.2 miles on the Jenkins-Pound Gap project into Virginia; this is a work contemplated, Mr. Boggs said. The Lexington-Harrodsburg Pike in Jessamine county and seven miles in Mason county on the Lexington Pike comprise other bids to be opened.

TWO TO HANG IN MERIDIAN TODAY

Frank Atkinson and Clyde Greer, to Pay Penalty for the Murder of
R. H. Bryant.

MERIDIAN, Miss., July 25.—Governor Whitfield having refused to intervene, arrangements are complete here for the double hanging this afternoon of Frank Atkinson and Clyde Greer for the murder of R. H. Bryant last June. His body, with 11 bullet holes in the back, was found two days after his disappearance from his home in company with the condemned men. This will be the first time any white man has ever been legally executed in this county and will be one of the few double hangings ever taking place in Mississippi. Both men will be placed on the trap of the gallows and hanged with a single touch of the death trigger.

The men received without show of emotion notification that the governor had declined to intervene but later Atkinson broke down and wept and asked a minister be sent for. When the minister left he informed Atkinson if he desired to be baptized he would return prepared to perform the ceremony.

Atkinson declared he was not a party to the actual killing and Bryant said if he killed Greer he had no recollection of it, being under the influence of liquor at the time the killing occurred.

Tar and Feathers Applied to the Nude Body of West Virginia Girl—State Police on Scene.

Associated Press.
FREDERICK, Md., July 25.—A young woman, whose name is said to have been Dorothy Graddon, of Martinsburg, W. Va., was tarred and feathered last night by an unmasked mob said to have been led by a young married woman who objected to alleged attentions paid by her husband to Miss Graddon.

According to details of the affair, received here, the mob met the woman on the street and took her to the edge of the village where she stripped off her clothing and tar and feathers were applied.

When free, the woman fled to the house at Myersville where she is staying and is still there today, although she has been ordered to leave town, it is reported. A squad of state police has been ordered to the district with instructions to identify members of the mob and make arrests. Miss Graddon is also said to have had warrants issued for a number of those in the party. The woman companion of Miss Graddon was also ordered to leave town but was not molested.

LOWDEN TRIAL IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Man Is Killed After Swearing Out
Warrant Against Father of Girl.

By Associated Press.
NEWCASTLE, July 25.—Examiner trial for Crosby Lowden, 40, farmer, who is charged with slaying Orland Yates, 26, yesterday will be held Thursday. Lowden is under arrest today.

Yates was slain after he swore out a warrant charging Lowden with inhuman treatment of his seventeen-year-old daughter, Ida Lee, to whom Yates had been paying some attention. Yates was killed at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon when Lowden met him on the road after searching several hours, officers said.

Yates, although he is able to see distinctly at night, is unable to see in the daytime, his friends said. Lowden is the father of seven motherless children, six of whom have been mothered by the girl, alleged to have been chastised.

Local Sleuth Catches Thief Stealing Cash

The proprietor of a local establishment had been missing money from his cash drawer for some time and Leslie Goodman, deputy constable, was given the case. The latter concealed himself in the room and waited for the pilferer.

Link Alexander, 15, colored, made his way through the back door by opening the screen with an ice pick, according to the deputy. He pulled out the cash drawer and took two dimes that had been marked by the owner for proof when the thief was caught.

FREE ATTRACTIONS

Fair This Year Will Be Bigger and Better Than Ever—
Many Other Prizes Offered.

Plans for giving away two automobiles and about a dozen other valuable prizes at the fall fair here this year were made at the meeting of the Middlesboro Merchants' Association at the Metch garage last night.

Tickets will be printed at once and sold to merchants for a small price. One of these will be issued free to customers for each dollar in trade. Issuance of tickets will begin as soon as they are printed and continue until the last day of the fair when a drawing will be made to determine the winners of the thousands of dollars in prizes.

The fair this year will be on a much larger scale than any of the others have been conducted. Tentative plans include exhibits of livestock while all the regular exhibits will doubtless be enlarged. There will be many free attractions including a first-class band to insure a large attendance.

Members of the finance committee canvassed the merchants of the city today and were met with offers of whole-hearted cooperation on every hand.

Date of the fair has not been definitely set, though it will probably be held during the latter part of September. Committees are busy now working out the plans and another meeting will be held at the Metch garage Tuesday night at which plans will be announced and further perfected.

BRADNER HEADS SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Elected President of the Bell County
Sunday School Association.

Officers elected for the Bell County Sunday School Association at a meeting of some of the Sunday School workers held Thursday evening for the ensuing year are as follows: Prof. J. W. Bradner, president, Middlesboro; Judge W. T. Davis, vice-president, Pineville; J. S. Wright, secretary and treasurer, Middlesboro.

Departmental superintendents were elected as follows: Mrs. H. A. McCamy, children; Rev. A. B. Archer, young people; E. L. Johnson, adults; administrative, C. A. Blackburn.

Rev. Geo. A. Joplin, D. D., General Secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School Association was present and a very instructive and enthusiastic meeting was held. Prof. J. W. Bradner is a very capable officer as he was County Sunday School President in Boyd county before coming to Middlesboro, and under his leadership the county will go forward in the Sunday School work as it has never done before. All of those chosen for the different offices are vitally interested in Sunday School work and are making special efforts to interest those not interested in Sunday Schools. This is interdenominational work in which all denominations are interested so when the different Sunday Schools are called upon to assist the president we must do our best.

The State Sunday School convention will be held in Louisville October 7-8-9, 1924.

32 COUNTIES NOT AFFECTED BY RACE

Will Have No Interest Congressional Primary or Election In November.

FRANKFORT, July 25.—Thirty-two counties out of the 120 in Kentucky will have no interest in the congressional tickets in the August 2 democratic and republican primaries or in the November election.

The filing of announcements of candidates with the secretary of state has closed and three congressmen are assured of re-election. They are Congressman Allen W. Barkley, Paducah, first district; David H. Kinchlo, Madisonville, second district, and Ralph Gilbert, Shelbyville, eighth district.

Congressman Barkley, who was swept into office at the last election, with 59,635 votes, against 28,070 votes for his republican opponent, Wallace Hughes, has constituents in Ballard, Caldwell, Callaway, Carlisle, Crittenden, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Lexington, Lyon, Marshall, McCracken and Trigg counties. He is a prominent democrat and relieved Sen. Walsh as chairman of the national democratic convention in New York from time to time during the long progress of that convention.

Congressman Kinchloe, another democrat, who received 45,741 votes, against E. B. Bassett's 36,280, comes from a district comprising Christian, Daviess, Hancock, Henderson, Hopkins, McLean, Union and Webster counties.

Congressman Gilbert, in the eighth district, also a democrat, ran a closer race, with 37,381 votes to 34,525 for his republican opponent, King Swope, in Adair, Anderson, Boyle, Casey, Garrard, Jessamine, Lincoln, Madison, Mercer, Shelby and Spencer counties.

In these counties these three democratic congressmen will be returned to congress.

Congressman Joe W. Morris who was given his seat in a special election November 30, 1923, in the seventh district, is the only one of the eleven congressmen from Kentucky not seeking re-election. He was elected to fill the unexpired term of Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, who died last year. Congressman Cantrill turned over his selection as the democratic nominee for governor to Gov. William J. Fields, then Congressman from the ninth district. Fred M. Vinson, Gov. Fields' choice as his successor, became congressman from the ninth district, at a special election, Dec. 12, 1923.

Deputy Cinnamon who went to his home at Shamrock after the shooting is not seriously hurt, though is not able to be out. The identity of the marauder which broke into the home of Bob Killian and struck and wounded Miss Elizabeth Mountain, his sister-in-law, is not known.

Government, Railroad Officials Implicated In Ring.

HOOCH FOR CAPITAL

Federal Grand Jury Makes Sensational Charges In Efforts to Break Up Big Booze Ring.

Associated Press.
The Federal Grand Jury today returned indictments naming thirty-six persons from Jacksonville to Washington, including railroad officials, police officers and government officials at the capital. A capias for their arrests was issued. The indictments charged liquor law violations.

According to the Federal district attorney, the indictments will break up well organized gangs which are charged with the responsibility of a large part of Washington's liquor supply.

The liquor is landed at the east coast of Florida and taken to Jacksonville where it is shipped to Washington in small lots, the attorney indicated. The railroad transportation is protected until it arrives at the capital. It is alleged that police and government officials are involved in the latter phase of development.

BANKS OF STATE ARE DELINQUENT

Banks Fail to Make Report to Auditor—Subject to Fine of $1,000.

FRANKFORT, July 25.—The penalty for a willful neglect of the duty of a state depository is a fine of not less than $1,000. T. Scott Mays, state inspector and examiner, said in a report to Gov. Fields yesterday.

He recommended that interest due the state from depositories be paid by check to the treasurer as in this way the fund can be "properly deposited and accounted for by him."

The inspector reported banks owing a total of $15,928.66 for the month of June, which banks, he said, had failed to report in time to the auditor.

They are: National Bank of Kentucky, Louisville, $6,121.21; First National Bank of Covington, $1,795.37; Winchester Bank, Winchester, $1,333.33; First State Bank, Barbourville, $1,116.00; Bank of Commerce, Lexington, $900.00; Third National Bank, Ashland, $811.00; First National Bank, Mayfield, $783.35; National Bank of John A. Black, Barbourville, $461.61; Bank of Williamsburg, Williamsburg, $440.00; Bank of Murray, Murray, $166.66.

"These credits are for interest to July 1, 1924, which amounts the various banks have voluntarily placed to the credit of the treasurer as of date June 30, 1924, and the placing of these amounts to the credit of the treasurer of the state of Kentucky was not made known to the auditor until after June 30, 1924, for which reason these items do not appear upon the books of either the auditor of the state treasurer," Mr. Mays said.

"I understand from the treasurer's office that interest is charged upon these state depositories to be paid semi-annually. I would suggest that this interest should not be credited to the bank account, but a cashier's check therefor be sent to the treasurer and the funds properly deposited and accounted for by him."

The penalty for a willful neglect of the duty of a state depository is a fine of not less than $1,000.00. Unless these depositories in the future make these reports promptly, I will ask for the imposition of the penalty.

MIDDLESBORO MINUS
A CITY COMMISSIONER

For nearly a month there has been a vacancy in the Middlesboro city commission which has reduced it to two-thirds the strength required by law. So far as is known, no plans have been made to appoint a man to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Cooke's resignation; indeed, one of the members stated recently that they might allow the matter to "rock along" as the city is saving seventy-five dollars per month while the two commissioners carry on the work.

The law regarding the appointment of city commissioner in event of vacancy is given in Carroll's Kentucky Statutes under Section 3400 b as follows: "In the event of a permanent vacancy in the board of commissioners caused by the death, resignation or inability of any member thereof, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the other members of the board until the vacancy shall be filled by the election of a successor at the next regular election of municipal officers, as is prescribed by law, and such temporary appointee shall, for the time he serves as such, receive the salary of the commissioner whose place he has been appointed to fill."

The statute is plain that the law requires such vacancies to be filled immediately after the resignation of a member, that the complement of city commissioners which, in this city, is three, is necessary to have meetings and transact the business of the city. But even if the present municipal regime of two men were perfectly legal and their official acts valid, many Middlesboro citizens and taxpayers do not like to be governed by a body of men less in number than that prescribed by law. Since the mayor and commissioner agree on all matters the present municipal government amounts to little less than an oligarchy.

Even though the two of them constitute a majority when there are three members, the third official is frequently able to influence the others in matters pertaining to the city welfare. At any rate a government by three men would be more representative and certainly the public could not claim that it is not getting a square deal in all civic matters which usually touch upon their finances or liberties.

As for the seventy-five dollars per month salary, the sum is insignificant compared to the public benefit which might accrue from a third active, efficient commissioner. The work connected with running a city of this size is hardly possible for two men, no matter how well qualified they may be or how much they have the interest of the public at heart.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION

The Republican party is going to conduct an aggressive campaign in all parts of the nation. The party is going to present to the people a list of the many achievements beneficial to the people that have been brought about since 1920. The Republicans are determined that the people of the nation shall have a full opportunity to become acquainted with the many good things the party has done for the people since March 4, 1921. The party managers feel that the people have a right to be presented with all, not part, of the facts. The Republicans are going to point to the fact that the program of Calvin Coolidge has been one of economy, of tax reduction, of efficiency; that he has steadily pursued an honest, direct course tending to bring about a better condition through every part of the United States. Not alone will the appeal be made to Republicans but to

It Takes Reciprocity To Build Home Industry

Patriotism is sometimes one thing in theory and another in action; we had some striking illustrations of this during the late unpleasantness with the Central Powers. Men when the nation was at war found opportunity to take from the government in army and building contracts and to defraud the country in a manner reprehensible to every canon of good and loyal citizenship.

Every good citizen owes his country in time of war his full support as a citizen both in brain and financial backing. In time of peace he owes loyal adherence to law, the upholding of order and the giving of the best in him to his country, his state and his community. Only on this loyalty can national, state and community citizenship be built.

Columns have been written on loyalty to community both as a matter of civic pride and commercial expediency. The newspapers, especially the press of the small towns and cities, have always been foremost in pushing the commercial interests of the home community. The excuse is often given those who buy by out of town that they were unable to get the certain article in the local stores. Once in a while such is the case. We have always looked on such buying as perfectly right—as long as the buyer has the money to expend on articles better than those offered at home. But on the other hand such buyers, if they have these tastes, should move to a community less rural where they may gratify them to the fullest extent without the trouble of making an automobile or railway journey to gratify them.

Local merchants are called upon to support every civic interest from a new Y. M. C. A. where your son may go, to a new city bridge that you may pass in safety with your family. The development of the mail order house in the past twenty years has brought the matter home to every small city and town merchant and every suburban dweller for you cannot have a good small city without good small city stores. The knife cuts both ways; you must be loyal to your home town merchant or he cannot aid you in having the things you desire in your community—the community where you are making a livelihood, and educating your family—good schools, good roads, good streets, good churches, good stores. The things that go to make a good small town of city—every thinking man and woman throughout the nation. The party realizes that the American people have already achieved their own understanding of President Coolidge; that he is the choice of the people and is not the choice of any set of politicians. The primary elections showed that Coolidge was the choice of the people. Chairman Butler, in his statement issued here, said: "We have a party platform and a presidential ticket that will make it possible to conduct the campaign everywhere in the open as energetically in one part of the country as in another, and to present our cause with the utmost frankness." Mr. Butler stated that he was particularly pleased to have received a large number of communications from men and women who admit that their interest in previous campaigns had only been incidental, but that they are now extremely anxious to actively participate in the present campaign. Coolidge's clean record will gain for him the support of many who, this year, for the first time, will vote the Republican ticket.

Tomorrow is always one day late.

The social swim is too full of fish.

A rushing business is always headed by a man who does the same.

Sometimes it looks as if talk is the best policy and honesty is cheap.

Politicians who jump from side to side don't make much speed forward.

Marry in haste and you will have no leisure for repenting.

Pedestrians don't make very good shock absorbers.

When a woman makes light of her hair she keeps it dark.

The money a man saves by not helping others never seems to do him so very much good.

the best place where any family ever was reared with the possible exception of a farm.

On the other hand the home town merchant must be loyal to the people that are his neighbors and his support in the way of trade. You cannot send out of town for your dry goods if you are a grocer and expect your neighbor who runs the dry goods store to be able to buy your groceries. If you are a lumber merchant you can't buy your groceries from a mail order house or in a distant city market and expect the grocer to put down a new concrete walk and buy the cement from you. If you are a dry goods merchant or clothing man you can't buy your printing or advertising in a distant city in another state, your envelopes from the government and have your lithographing done in New York or Chicago and expect the local newspaperman or printer to buy your goods.

If anyone under the shining canopy that should set the example of buying at home it should be the dealer who is most interested in seeing that people buy at home. It is an impossibility to run first class printing establishments in a town where merchants buy their publicity and their job printing out of town. No printing establishment can maintain a standard newspaper or a standard printing establishment where such buying is done; you can't expect a newspaper to fight your battles and refuse to give the loyal support that you expect from the men who get their livelihood from the newspaper.

Within the past four months when Middlesboro needed every dollar to be conserved and spent within its borders, hundreds and hundreds of dollars have been spent out of the city by the merchants of the city every article of which could have been purchased approximately at as low a price right here in Middlesboro and this applies to everything from a new pair of silk hose for friend wife to a job lot of stationary for friend husband. Within the past two months to our certain knowledge, the town has been flooded with bills, advertising local sales, which bills were printed in outside printing establishments. We don't blame those printers; they are good printers, but there is just as good here in Middlesboro who spent the larger part of their earnings in groceries, dry goods, rents, clothing, coal, etc., right at home. This is a plain statement of a living fact. So don't howl if business goes out of town. Some of you are a living, breathing, walking example of the thing you condemn as highly reprehensible in others.

ANCIENT TOMB
YIELDS FINDS OF HEIRLOOMS

250 Gold Ornaments Are Found In Ancient Sepulchre.

SHUT 1,000 YEARS

Relics of Pre-Hellenic Period Among Treasures of Greek Tomb—Vases, Urns, Are Found.

By Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, July 25.—The discovery of 250 gold ornaments that were ancient heirlooms even in the time of Homer, the opening of a Greek tomb that had not been disturbed for more than 3,000 years, and the discovery that the so-called saddle roof was not unknown in the architecture of that early day, are some of the important results just reported here of the Swedish Archaeological Expedition, headed by Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, which is excavating the ancient city of Aegina, Greece.

The latest discovery of the Swedish experts came somewhat as a surprise when, after having explored a tomb as big as a house and finding nothing of unusual interest, they turned to a tomb less than five feet wide. This proved to be a treasure trove, dating about 1150 B. C., in the Mycenaean or pre-Hellenic period.

It contained numerous earthenware vases of rare design and decoration, eight beautiful bronze urns and other vessels, of which one was 20 inches high. One of the smaller bronze urns contained four necklaces of gold and iridescent glass beads, and curiously enough the strings were sufficiently well preserved to show the arrangement of the beads, so that the necklaces can now be restored to their exact appearance 3,000 years ago. The necklaces contained 650 beads and other ornaments, of which 250 were of gold.

The great tomb nearby, which contained few treasures, is nevertheless of great archaeological value, since it is built in the form of a house, and its top, hewn into the rock, is the exact shape of the familiar "saddle roof," with sloping sides and gables at both ends, thus proving that this architectural detail was known in Greece more than 1,000 years B. C.

The Swedish Expedition has been at work in the excavation of Aegina for more than two years and has already unearthed and classified more than 500,000 treasures and fragments of value, some of which date back as far as 2,500 B. C. Yet the experts say that the work has only just begun, and that still more important discoveries may be expected in the chest.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By Harry B. Hunt
WASHINGTON, The capitol is a brighter place, now that Congress is gone.

For when the senators and congressmen left they were followed by a soap-and-water brigade that has been giving the big building "on the Hill" the most thorough renovating it has had in years.

All the blood spilled in the radical raids that forced new rules in the House and blocked the Mellon tax bill has been mopped up all the smudges and smears resulting from the oil scandal have been scrubbed away.

"Congress has been so constantly in session the past several years we haven't had a chance to give the building the overhauling it has needed," they tell you down at the office of Dave Lynn. "This year, when we have had several months' time, it didn't give us the money to do all that ought to be done, but we're doing the best we can."

Over in the House wing, the many-colored mosaic tiling, made 70 years ago at Trent on Tyne, England, and worn thin by the pacing feet of three generations of restless statesmen, is being replaced by a more sedate and dignified black and white marble flooring.

The white marble is an American product, but the black is imported from Belgium.

The most striking change the renovation has brought about to date, however, has resulted in the cleansing given the great historical paintings that adorn the walls of the capitol rotunda.

Personages of fame in American history, whose countenances have been dimmed by the dust of time, have emerged from the darkness that has enshrouded them for years and stand forth again fresh and vigorous in the flesh.

Pocahontas, her face scrubbed near future.

All the portable finds of the Crown Prince's expedition are being studied in the University of Lund, Sweden, to which they have been shipped by special permit of the Greek government. As soon as the examination has been completed by archaeological experts, the finds will be returned to Greece.

ORIGINATOR DAVIS
SLOGAN COMMENDED

"Better Days With Davis," Quip of One Republican Correspondent.

FRANKFORT, July 24.—The man who originated the phrase often used around the statehouse, "Better Days With Davis," John A. Goodman, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, today said he has received mail from all over the country since he made public his slogan for the democratic party. While the majority of mail is enthusiastic about his slogan which he suggested to the democratic national committee as a rejoinder to the republican "Keep Cool with Coolidge," clean, is seen at her baptism.

DeSota is seen discovering a Mississippi river that no longer runs muddy under its burden of dust, but is revealed now as a liquid if not a sparkling, rippling river.

General Burgoyne, in surrendering to General Washington, passes over a sword that is newly scoured and shining.

And the "Fathers," engaged in signing the Declaration of Independence, all look as though their frilled shirts and knee breeches had just come from the dry cleaners.

Those are the four pictures that, so far, have been "restored." The capitol's art experts are now working on the Landing of John Smith at Jamestown.

When that is done there will remain the Embarkation of the Pilgrims, The Surrender of Lord Cornwallis, and Washington Resigning Command of the Continental Army.

The cleansing of these masterpieces of historical art will take, it is estimated, at least another two months. Maybe three. It is exacting work, requiring the utmost pains to avoid marring the tints and texture of the paintings.

First the paintings are dusted, to remove surface accumulation of loose dirt. Then they are washed in a solution that removes the grime.

After this they are "cleaned" by a solution, applied carefully inch by inch, which cuts away part of the cover of varnish, in which much dirt has become embedded; but which is not permitted to penetrate to the color pigments beneath.

The result has been to bring out a beauty and color in the pictures which have been altogether lost to visitors at the capitol through the last score of years.

The big painting underneath the dome, however, will not be cleaned. It would cost "too much" to build the necessary scaffolding.

a postal card from St. Louis to him read "Better Days With Davis: Keep Cool, Don't Worry."

As the state administration is democratic, virtually all officials here have expressed themselves for the democratic nominee.

Gov. Fields, upon his return from the New York convention, recounted how Davis and he were seatmates in congress, while Charles Marvick, state banking commissioner, today said Davis and he were schoolmates at Washington and Lee University where Davis took the degrees of A. B. and B. L., was a member of the law faculty and is now one of the Board of Trustees.

Things seems to get better every day and worse every night.

A Stitch in Time Saves Nine

Is an old saying but it is perfectly true.

A patch in time will save your roof. Think that over and see if your roof is not in need of going over. It pays to go over your roof once every year and any little hole or a bad shingle repaired. It not only save the roof but the wall paper and plastering, the carpet and floors—in fact it may save a great deal more than that for if the roof leaks there is no telling what may be ruined. Come in and look over our roofing and talk the matter over with us. We are prepared to serve you better and give you quicker deliveries now than when every one will be in a hurry to get this repair work done. Get ahead of the season. Don't let it get ahead of you.

Do it now.

MILK IS NATURE'S PATENT MEDICINE

Man Cannot Produce Milk Artificially—The Oldest Prescription In the World

Milk is Nature's own patent—the only product she has ever made solely for food. Man cannot produce milk artificially. He will never be able to blend so perfectly all the elements of a perfect food as his Nature in her gift of milk.

Milk is the oldest prescription in the world. A catalogue of its life-giving and health-sustaining virtues would be like the reading of a patent medicine advertisement. And it is true that if milk were given a firm name labeled with all the elements that compose it placed in containers of drug stores shape and announced for exactly what it is—the greatest body builder and health restorer in the world—everyone would buy it at medicine prices. It is convincing to know that milk is the only food immediately procurable to the young of the higher animal species. Nature did not make a mistake. She gave her best not for infants alone, but as food for all ages. Milk in the purity of its whiteness, cream a simple food but in reality it is the most complex food in the world. It is liquid meat, fat and sugar with mineral salts and life-giving milk.

Milk was intended for man's principal food, and among all the wonders of milk none is greater and more worthy of thought than this. Nature so made it one nearly perfect food for man that it he must live it his best and most constant care in order to keep it soft able for food. Think that ever Mrs. West foot milk to be food for his mind and body. It is to him pure and clean. It must be put in under the most ideal conditions and through every time fit in the feed before it can be the milk to the cooking utensils on the range. Milk must be handled with the greatest care and thought. Nature was wise and it is milk a doubt perfect.

Milk under the conditions of milk becomes the very foundation of the link of a nutritional diet. Deny a man milk and his health becomes flat and listless as they were in the days of the cave man. With milk in their cookery would be impossible.

Milk is one of the perishes of foods with deterioration starting shortly after it has been taken from the cow. Pasteurization is the process that removes any danger from milk that may have been introduced into the fluid in the time of milking. Pasteurization inures a pure whole some product for every member of the family. If you would insure your child's health by a pure, pasteurized milk, insure your whole family the same life product.

Fondness for Oranges Shown by Gothamites

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The citrus fruit supply of the country, after deduction of export, was enough to allow 219 pounds of oranges, 65 pounds of grape fruit and 37 pounds of lemons for the consumption of each person in the United States last year, the Department of Agriculture estimates.

There was a total supply of 34,893,000 boxes of oranges, 8,118,000 boxes of grape fruit and 1,199,000 boxes of lemons, but exports amounted to 2,294,000 boxes of oranges, 281,000 boxes of grape fruit and 182,000 boxes of lemons. Unofficial statistics place New York City's consumption of oranges at 60 pounds per capita annually.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

If lower part of window shades is soiled by shade on the floor and remove from roller. Reverse the shade, put a hem at the top and in next step pull ring then tick the lower part of shade on roller, being careful to replace exactly as it was tucked before.

If the alarm clock refuses to run, turn it over and pour a cup of oil in the holes in back, let stand an hour and drain into sink, it will then run.

Fasten lingerie type or ribbon carefully in back of each garment, the draw string will never pull out.

Draw lingerie type and tie securely when putting garments in the wash, this prevents bit tears around the top.

Put sewing machine out on screened porch in summer. Sewing begins a pleasure instead of a task.

Hang silk curtains on rods when still wet, they will need no ironing, and will hang exactly straight.

Clean sink bathtub, etc., with coal

A lump of sugar on which has been poured a few drops of colloid will stop a croupy cough.

A package of dye will make the children's faded wash dresses (either plain or plaid) look new. Many may be dyed with one package.

Never warm over coffee. Make just enough for each meal. Wash pot carefully and air each time. This will prevent much of the present day stomach troubles. Fresh coffee is less costly than doctors' and medicine.

URGE TRADEMARK CONTROL AT MEET

Experts Say Penalties Should Be Imposed on Unscrupulous Manufacturers

By Associated Press

GENEVA, July 25.—International experts assigned to study draft articles for a convention on unfair competition in business have forwarded a set of principles to the economic committee of the League of Nations. The recommendations among other things, the states which are members of the Union for the Protection of Industrial Property should be asked to assure the redress including penal remedies to nationals of other contracting countries in case of fraudulent use of trademarks.

The experts hold that suitable penal measures should be framed to prevent the fraudulent or misleading use of trade designations other than trademarks, such as names, styles of firms, headings of printed matter, emblems, etc. They believe that such measures should apply not only to the reproduction of designations or pictorial representations, or both, but also to colorable imitations of the same as well as to false indications of origin or of identity of the producer, manufacturer or merchant whenever such practices might cause confusion as to the origin of the goods in question.

Furthermore, the recommendations insist that the provisions of the Union for the Protection of Industrial Property should be especially applied in the case of seizures at frontiers of important products which carry an illegal trademark or commercial name.

Package Delivery by Vehicle Is Resumed

Postal patrons who have been carrying heavy packages from the post office daily are glad to notice a resumption of the package delivery service by vehicle which was effective today.

The vehicular service was cut off about two weeks ago on account of insufficient appropriations. It was only by strenuous efforts of the local postal officials which resulted in a num ber of telegrams and a mass of correspondence that the postal department was induced to resume the service here.
